June 4, 1928 - October 30, 2018

Doris Annabelle Schroeder, 90, of Charlotte, passed away on October 30 2018 at Sensations Memory Care. She was born on June 4, 1928, to William Thomas and Doris (Speir) Selby in Youngstown, PA.

Doris was a lifelong reader, honing her skill at the breakfast table with her dad, reading the daily newspaper. As she grew, so did her passion for reading. She attended Eastern Michigan University, then known as Michigan State Normal School, and earned her Bachelor Degree, and followed up with earning her Masters at the University of Colorado. She was a librarian at Melvindale High School, belonged to several book clubs, and was a great promoter and encourager of others to become well read. She enjoyed quilting, needlepoint, crocheting, making jewelry and ornaments, and had fun sewing Barbie doll clothes for her niece.

One favorite memory was the week in the summer times that the niece and nephews were to spend with Doris in her Lincoln Park home. It would include a trips to the Detroit Zoo, Boblo Island, Greenfield Village and of course, the beloved day in the bookstore.

Doris married her husband, Elton Meryl Schroeder at the age of 40, and enjoyed his family as well.

Doris is survived by her niece, Deb (Mike) Loucks; nephews, James Selby, Steve (Ada) Selby, Richard Selby; and cousin, Marianna. She was preceded in death by her parents; brother, William Speir Selby; and her husband, Meryl.

The family will have a graveside service at a later time. If desired, the family suggests memorial contributions to Alzheimer's Association.
