“ I am my grandma s first granddaughter and I miss and love her she always told me to do my best and never give up even most days I still remember her telling the same words and most days i don't stand up and face the fear of being in a big group of people like today, January 20,2016 I had to write a speech and stand up in the front of the room and tell them about my life when my name was called i Told Mr. Martin that I cant and tears rolled down my face i was scared to because telling my life story is very hard for me i remember a day at school when i was little i was on stage and she was in the front row and she was smiling at me while everyone else was staring at me and i ran of that stage and ran to my grandma and cried in her arms sayig i could not do it but she told me not to be scared to go up there and do my best and i did i still try doing that today but its harder when she is not around to help me out when i need it

“ My deepest Sympathies to Gary and Family. I never got to meet Amy, just through Gary, and I grew to admire her strength and love for family that kept her fighting so hard against her illness. I wish I could have met her, I would have loved to have been able to call her a friend. My Thoughts and Prayers are with you all.

“ Gary, Gary Jr., Scott and Ron, the Thorne family sends their prayers in this time of sorrow. I remember when I was a teenager, your home was like my second home. I remember having dinners at your house, and Amy always made me feel like I was part of the family. Growing up less than 1/4 mile from there, Ron and I were inseparable. Thank you for allowing me to be part of your lives!
Sincerely, Joshua Thorne

“ Gary & Family, My heartfelt prayers go out to all of you. I never had the chance to meet Amy, but I feel that deep down inside that I had. Gary, just leaving a card or something small for you to take home, that I thought that she might enjoy or bring a smile to Amy's face. We shared alot of the same interests with the gardening, bird watching & decorating for the special times. I will continue to pray for you as the days come & go.
