“ I thought to post this pic taken in happier times. This picture was taken when Esthony and Matt came to visit us here in Cleveland to introduce us to baby Harmony. We always had a good time catching up during the holidays or whenever she would come to visit. My deepest sympathy to the family.

“ Although her Uncle and I did not spend a great deal of time with Esthony in her adulthood, we have beautiful memories of her infectious smile and her gentle eyes. Memories that will remain with us for as long as God grants it. I pray the Lord brings comfort to everyone who is grieving. Rest now, delicate soul.

“ Esthony was one of the first friends I made when my family moved to Charlotte. There are so many things I remember about her. Her laugh. Her straight forward, tell it like it is honesty. If I was feeling down or struggling with something, she always encouraged me. But one thing more than any other - the love she had for her children. Out of our friend group, I was the first to have a baby. I was still in highschool and my first day back she hugged me and said "you must miss your baby so much!" She frequently talked about having children someday. When it was her turn to become a parent, she was the proudest mom. She loved her children so much. It's hard to imagine the world without her in it. She will be missed so much.

Nellie, you were her favorite aunt. I don't know if you remember but, you invited me and the kids over to spend the night with you because their father was working out of town and Esthony had taken her Barbie luggage bag over with her. She said "I'm taking my barbies so that I can play with Aunt Nellie". Once we were there for a while and you and she played with her barbies you actually gave us a great idea which she loved. You told us it was "to hard to dress these darn dolls let's just switch their heads instead of their clothes " lol. Remember that ?! She sure did because she would mention it to me.
