“ I'll never forget the time at the farm when I was little and staying there and got homesick. Aunt Marg told me the story of her brother Paul (my dad) throwing lit matches from behind the couch and the time he told her to stick out her tongue and close her eyes and punched the tip of her tongue with a paper punch. I decided to stay, I think she told me all this cause it was late and she didn't want to have to take me home..next day I was over it. I could listen for hours at all the things Aunt Marg knew, she lived a full and loved life, she'll be greatly missed.
Love you..your niece Sue
