“ I'm quick to miss Kellan and his prescence within our family. He was a strong, ambitious, and loving young man. The way he was able to care for his tight-knit herd (or rather, "Hurd") of younger siblings is something that I am particularly fond of and still inspired by. His death is untimely and there is a tremendous amount of pain that comes with that for many people. However, I sincerely hope that he is now experiencing a sense peace that I wish he could've nourished in this life. I also hope that all of his family and friends, myself included, can eventually find an unencumbered degree of peace with his memory and that we can carry on in our lives building on the familial strength and compassion that Kellan was capable of. I like to think that he has the same hopes for us wherever he is now.

“ Words cannot begin to express what we wish to convey. We are so sorry that we allowed barriers to keep us apart and that we did not ever take the time or make the effort to know this truly amazing young man. As I sit here and read these beautiful tributes, it's apparent that Kellan touched the lives of many, and was truly a rare gem in this world. Amber, Uncle Brad, Bradley, and Kirstie, please know that no matter what, my love for all of you has never floundered, and I'm here for you day or night.

My deepest love and sympathy,

Lesley

“ I had the benefit of having Kellan in my 4H club. His contributions to our club and it's me can't be counted. He was one who always helped others and looked out for younger members. He helped them with their rabbits by giving showmanship tips or just helping with morning fair chores. We as a club we remember and thank Kellan for leaving us part of his legacy of sharing and caring.

“ I had the pleasure of being one of Kellan's teachers, but I may have learned as much from him as he did from me. He would often stop by my classroom to talk about the truck he was going to get, and then about the work he was doing on it. He was proud he could save some $ by doing the work himself, and more than once he offered to use his expertise to work on my car if needed. He was a caring young man who left us too soon, but he will never be forgotten. My prayers go out to his family and friends. May God Bless you and give you comfort.

“ Kellan was a delight to his family. Anytime his name was said by his mom or grandma you knew that he was a big part of their heart. His siblings were blessed to have him as the oldest brother. I am so so sad for all of the ones that were lucky enough to love this young man. Love you Kellan. May you rest in peace. Aunt Anne

“ His eyes were so bright light blue, they took my breath away, I think he saw the world thru a very special lense or filter. He was such a nice boy. We feel awful for his family's loss and ours. I've been praying for them and Kellan and will never stop. It's the only way I can help him now. We may take comfort when we can, that he is surrounded but loving care in his new life now. He's left a big hole in our life. It is such a tragedy. But there's no point to anger and blame, it wont help anyone especially Kellan. Please say a little prayer from your soul to his whenever you think of him, comfort him. I bet he's fishing or just being with nature in the most beautiful surroundings, happy with his new building projects. Our Lord loves him and shared him with us for a brief moment.
