“ It's taken me far too long to share this and for that I apologize. Phyllis always had a smile, laughed deeply and engagingly and had eyes that twinkled when she talked with you. Speaking of eyes, she loved getting trick or treaters at Halloween. She knew who you were by your eyes. Mom told us to keep our eyes shut and make her wait to guess who we were. We stood there one year for what seemed 15 minutes with our eyes closed. My brother peeked and she blurted our names...she laughed and laughed and we were so disappointed...what a brilliant light in the world went out with her passing. So many great memories of Phyllis and the entire Jackson family. As I work on my moms cookbook, she brings a smile to my face and just wanted to say I've missed her.
