“ As a child, Bob Carroll would stop by many mornings for coffee and visit with my Dad (David Banks). Then the two of them would be off to do whatever pile of dirt needed to be dug up that day. I believe he was there on our farm the day my Dad took down the silo. Oh the story of that day!

May he Rest In Peace.

“ If you knew Uncle Robert then you knew how hard of a worker he was. From sunup to sundown he would be busy with his excavating business.

I remember how he would get up early and take care of the cows for Grandpa and then off to do his job. There was no such thing as a day off for him.

Well Uncle Robert it is now time for you to rest as you join the rest of your family in the Glory Land.
