Scott Tyler Crandall, best known for his giving spirit and brave heart, passed away on January 2, 2026. He was born on November 28, 1969.

Scott was a man of quiet strength and deep resilience. Though he often kept to himself, those who knew him understood that he was always willing to help whenever he could. He faced illness with determination and grace, choosing each day to make the best of whatever it offered. A hard and dedicated worker, Scott took great pride in his job at the University of Michigan Sparrow-Eaton cafeteria, where he never missed a day of work. His commitment and reliability were a testament to his strong work ethic and sense of responsibility.

Scott found joy in listening to heavy metal and rock and roll music, which accompanied him through many moments of life. One of his greatest accomplishments was his 15 years of sobriety, a milestone he was deeply proud of and which reflected his courage and perseverance. Above all, Scott made the best of everything he could, meeting life with quiet determination and a generous heart.

“ I have known and worked with Scott as his instructor in adult ed program for many years!
He always had a great positive attitude even when i knew that he didn't feel well.
He loved to cook and eat good food.
I use to drop food off to him that I had made.
He was always thankful and appreciated that I helped him .

“ Jenna and I will miss Scott so very much. He was one of Matt's closest friends and Matt loved him dearly. Scott continued to show his sweet and caring personality to Jenna when she became his neighbor. I am so sorry Tina. It was so clear how much you loved and cared about him. My heart is so broken for you. I am keeping you and your family in my prayers. Much love, Theresa Hart.

Scott was a neighbor of mine. In fact I had a surprise greeting my second day with moving in. He and Matt made them selves to home on my front porch as I came out holding a cup of coffee . It was then that I knew I had 2 great guys to help me if I needed it. Rest in peace Neighbors in Heaven.
